

REDCARPET » PHOTOS BY DREW ALTIZER

Celebs get wet for Tenderloin families

TNDC CELEBRITY POOL TOSS: It's possibly The City's most fun fundraiser, and it has been a splashing success once again. The 15th annual event, held Wednesday at the pool at the Phoenix Hotel, raised more than $280,000 for the Tenderloin Neighborhood Development Corporation's programs for children and families. Among the celebrities who were thrown in the water for the good cause were writer-producer Robert Mailer Anderson (bringing in $15,000) and KRON host Joey Altman ($10,000). The top moneymaker was Alex Clemens of Barbary Coast Consulting, who got wet to the tune of $30,000.

Robert Mailer Anderson gets ready to get wet — for a good cause. — All: Heather Wiley for Drew Altizer

Above: Christopher Bentley

Right: From left, Christine Pelosi, Tom Kelley, comedian Debbie Durst, Kelly Cullen

District Attorney Kamala Harris and TNDC Director Don Falk

Above: Singer Bud E. Luv and chef Tori Ritchie, host of "Ultimate Kitchens" and event emcee

Left: Event co-chairs Jim Losi and Laura King Pfaff

Awards focus on families

COMMON SENSE MEDIA AWARDS: "High School Musical" and J.K. Rowling and her "Harry Potter" books were among this year's winners of the awards, which honor the best entertainment for children and families and single out the worst that media has to offer in terms of healthy perspectives for families ("Anti-role model" awards went to the celebantes of Hollywood: Britney Spears, Paris Hilton, Nicole Richie and Lindsay Lohan, and the celebrity-obsessed media). The honors were presented Thursday at the Four Seasons Hotel in San Francisco.

Above: From left, Common Sense Media President Anne Zehren, Will Schutte, Susanne Schutte

Right: FCC Commissioner Deborah Taylor Tate and Rich Ross, president of Disney Channel Worldwide

Above: Cecilia Herbert, left, and KPIX reporter Kate Kelly

Right: Former Giants first baseman J.T. Snow, left, and Common Sense CEO Jim Steyer — All: Heather Wiley for Drew Altizer

Olesya Rulin, left, and Monique Coleman of "High School Musical"